SLA EQ Horse Owners Information

Fire Department sates "Shelter in Place" for fire is probably best, though owners who wish to evacuate their horses should do so. If you decide to evacuate, please completely leave the EQ premises, with a destination already planned. Please do not linger nearby. The EQ is a lot of dirt, which provides more safety. If necessary, during a fire, the center of the arena is the safest place for humans. Additional safety measures:

- Keep all registration documents, stall/pens and phone numbers up to date with SLA Maintenance.
 - Keep your stall/pen and surrounding area free of natural debris and clutter.
 - First owner on scene after 911 call, should immediately call Code Enforcement and Operations Superintendent if possible. Generate a group text appraising owners of the situation.
 - Horses closest to approaching fire lines must be moved first, with particular attention to the barn stalls and hay locker/pen combinations at the back (numbers 50-55).
 - According to the local Fire Department, the most urgent fire danger comes from the 3 building structures at the front of EQ. Then the pens at the back with hay lockers attached.
 - FD's first priority, with imminent danger there will be to release barn and back pens #50-55 horses, with unlocked gates.
 - Second, locked gates will be cut off, and horses released. Walked out horses will be moved to open pens away from the structures/fires.
 - TRAILERS: If evacuation is needed safe trailer loading locations will be decided by Fire Department personnel.
1. Trailers can be lined up by back tack locker building, facing towards RV Center. Keep trailer to the side to allow for easy passage of emergency vehicles.
 2. EQ owners should park on Helendale Rd. between the Northwest driveway and the wash bridge and then walk into the EQ.
 3. Trailers can be lined up between the red hay lockers and the arena, facing towards the exits to Helendale Road. Keep trailers to the side to allow for easy passage of emergency vehicles.
 4. Trailers can be lined up in front of the barn, facing towards RV Center. Keep trailers to the side to allow for easy passage of emergency vehicles.

5. Outside rescue trailers coming in will enter through safest gate and move to designated loading area.

- At all times, everyone should watch out for, and NEVER TOUCH DOWNED POWER LINES.
- Yearly Emergency Plan drills can be held. These can/will be coordinated with and/or supervised by the Fire Department, SLA Administration and Code Enforcement.

Helendale Fire Department Information

- HFD will be provided with a copy of this SLA EQ Emergency Plan.
- HFD may observe and report on regularly scheduled Plan drills.
- HFD will contact SLA EQ Barn Coordinator to notify of any planned FD Risk Analysis Walk through scheduled for the Equestrian Center
